FILIBUSTER MAY DEFEAT COURT "PACK"

Opponents Enough to Talk Scheme To Its End

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, seeking all possible support for his judiciary reorganization program arranged for two conferences with senators at the White House late today.

On Monday American Farm Bureau Federation officials will call to discuss the courts. They will be accompanied by Secretary Wallace. Wallace has said that farmers will support the president. He made that statement after the National Grange, an organization of farmers, opposed increasing the size of the Supreme Court.

The president already has consulted more than two dozen senators on his plan. Indications are he will continue his conferences until he has talked with most if not all of them.

"Voice of the Grave." In a radio address, Senator Bailey (D-NC) quoted Woodrow Wilson's "Voice of the Grave" as an argument against the president's proposal. Bailey said Wilson described as "outrages upon constitutional morality" attempts to increase the court's size.

Concession of court dockets and the ages of the justices, the North Carolinian said, have been abandoned as arguments for Roosevelt's reorganization plan.

"The real reason is now frankly avowed," he said, "and that reason is that it is desired to bring about the appointment of six additional justices of the Supreme Court for the plain purpose of validating legislation which its authors admit would be held unconstitutional by the court as now constituted."

"There is a right way to change the constitution and that is by amendment submitted to the state legislatures or to the people."

Members of both sides in the controversy agreed today there were sufficient senate opponents to block action indefinitely if they chose filibustering tactics.

Doubt Willingness. Administration leaders, however, expressed doubts that any group of senators, no matter how sizeable, would be willing to prevent a vote.

Roosevelt backers continued to predict victory. Opponents were not talking filibuster; they were after enough votes to beat court reorganization, and declared they had almost enough.

Privately, however, foes of the president's program said they would talk and hard to "educate" the

Ungrateful Wretch

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Senator Reynolds of North Carolina rates a kiss from Jean Harlow below one from a girl in his home state. Chided at a North Carolina Democratic club dinner last night for kissing the movie actress when she was here for the president's birthday ball, Reynolds said:

"It didn't compare with a North Carolina kiss."

Democrat From Connecticut Moves For Furtherance of Press Freedom

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Representative Phillips (D-Conn.) has introduced a bill to require any publication which prints criticism of any governmental agency or of any person holding a government office to publish any reply made by the criticized agency or individual.

In addition, the measure would forbid a publication to delete or abridge "any matter from a public statement or communication of any kind" addressed to it without indicating the omission has been made deliberately.

Boss Sit-Downer

Detroit, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Walter L. Fry, president of the Fry Products Company of Detroit became the nation's No. 1 boss sit-downer today.

When the 100 employees of the company, which manufactures covers for automobile seats, sat down demanding wage and hour concessions, Fry picked up a sandwich, found himself a cot near a telephone and sat down with them.

"If the workers can sit down," said Fry, "so can I, and I'll sit right here in the plant with them and last as long as they do."

Fry ordered dinner for all the strikers.

"After all, I'm part of the strike now," he said, "and they are all going to be my guests."

REDS FEINT AT FASCIST LINES OUT OF MADRID

Attempt To Divert Fierce Pressure On Capital

Madrid, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Government troops feinted at insurgent siege lines northwest of the city in an effort to divert fierce pressure today on her southeastern defenses, in preparation for renewed government assaults.

The government's sudden thrust to the northwest drove insurgents from coveted heights near Aravaca, only a few miles from Madrid, and brought a concentration of insurgent troops there along the Coruna highway.

A government attack was expected to determine whether the maneuver had substantially weakened insurgent troops there along the Coruna highway.

A fierce four-hour battle yesterday preceded the government victory.

Farmer Arrested For Hit And Run Killing Of Girl

Coatsville, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—State police announced today the arrest of Alexander Meyer, 20, a farmer, and said he related he had accidentally run down and killed Helen Meyer nine days ago and hid her body in a well on his place.

Lieutenant Harry McElroy at Harrisburg said state police headquarters was advised that Meyer stated he had attacked the girl. No reference was made to this by the state police at Coatsville.

County Detective Francis Grubb said Meyer stated that he became panicky after striking the girl and decided to conceal the body. Later, Grubb said, Meyer dynamited the top of the well so as to further hide the body.

State police said Meyer agreed to lead them to the well and aid in recovering the body.

STRIKE GROWS WORSE TODAY IN WAUKEGAN

Sit-downers Still Hold Positions in Factory

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Federal and state conciliators pressed for a settlement today of the sit down strike at the Fawcett Metalurgical Corporation to prevent further outbreaks of violence at the beleaguered plant.

A brief riot between 200 special deputies and strike sympathizers in a crowd of 500 persons near the factory grounds last night increased tension in the North Chicago company.

Earlier the 82 "sit-downers" behind nailed doors in two buildings repulsed a force of 125 men under Sheriff L. A. Doolittle which attempted to evict them in compliance with a court order directing evacuation of the factory. Three strikers and as many deputies were injured, none seriously.

The second disturbance started when strike sympathizers ripped badges from several special officers. The deputies swung clubs and baseball bats freely. The crowd dispersed after driving most of the deputies from their posts.

Conciliators failed to effect a truce in their first conferences and asked contending parties to meet with Governor Henry Horner's representative, state Director of Labor Martin P. Durkin. The governor said he would come here as a peace-maker if Durkin failed to settle the strike.

Labor Represented. Robert Pilkington and John O'Connor represented the United States department of labor in the controversy. Meyer Adelman, regional organizer for the Committee for Industrial Organization, appeared on behalf of the strikers, and Max Swerin, general counsel for the corporation, represented the company.

Early today the sheriff withdrew all except some 60 deputies from the factory grounds. Officers said they planned no further attempts at present to oust the strikers.

Sheriff Doolittle yesterday informed the governor the situation was "out of control." Deputy Sheriff Joe Welch said the sheriff would ask Governor Horner for troops unless the strikers capitulated.

The strikers began the demonstration Wednesday, demanding recognition of their C. I. O. union, the amalgamated association of iron, steel and tin workers of America. The corporation then obtained an order from Circuit Judge Ralph Dady directing the strikers to evacuate. Their defiance of the injunction resulted in contempt citations.

Sleep In Shifts. During the night the sit-downers tried sleeping in shifts, huddling under blankets for protection against the chill winds blowing off nearby Lake Michigan. The plant was unheated and unlighted. Many

"President Wants You To Join Union" Steel Workers Are Advised

Circulars in New Jersey "Message From President"

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A drive by the Committee for Industrial Organization to unionize three Trenton steel plants was disclosed today as employees made known they received circulars headed: "The president wants you to join the union."

The three firms are the John A. Roeblings Sons Co., the American Steel & Wire Co., and the Crescent Insulated Wire & Cable Co.

On the envelopes containing the circulars was this: "A message to you from the president." The reply envelope is addressed to E. J. Lever, field director, steel workers organizing committee, C. I. O., Philadelphia.

To Call Election. In one corner of the circular is a blank to be filled in by the worker, stating he accepts membership in the association and authorizes the steel workers organizing committee to act for the signer as a collective bargaining agency in all matters pertaining to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, or other conditions of employment.

"The National Labor Relations Board, official United States government agency created by the last session of Congress, has the legal power to hold an election in your plant, to let the workers decide for themselves which organization shall serve as their collective bargaining agency."

Judge Harry Edwards this morning adjourned the term of the circuit court until next Saturday morning. Judge Edwards will leave early next week for Mt. Vernon to attend the sessions of the appellate court of the southern Illinois district of which he is senior justice.

TAKES NEW POSITION. Miss Frances Naylor, secretary to Prof. B. J. Frazer, principal at the Dixon high school, will leave Sunday for Jacksonville, Ill., where she will enter McMurray college. Miss Naylor will take a secretarial position in the college.

The jury returned a verdict finding that death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning resulting from fumes escaping from a defective heater. Funeral services will be conducted from the Jones funeral home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and the body taken to Fairmont cemetery at Polo where interment will be made.

OUTSTANDING OFFICIAL OF COUNTY GONE

Pneumonia Proves Fatal To Judge; Short Illness

County Judge William L. Leech, one of Lee county's most loyal and best loved citizens, passed away at 9 o'clock this morning at his residence, 412 East Third street, his unexpected passing being a distinct shock to his hosts of friends, although it had been reported that his condition yesterday was considered critical. Judge Leech had been suffering from a malignant cold since before the holidays but not until last Sunday was he compelled to absent himself from his duties and remained at home for treatment. He appeared to be recovering from the cold when pneumonia developed Wednesday. The right lung was involved and his condition grew rapidly worse until the heart grew weaker, resulting in a complication which hastened his death.

Judge Leech was born in Hennepin, Ill., June 11, 1880, the son of Leonard and Elizabeth Leech. He graduated from the public and high schools at Hennepin and in his early young manhood came to this city where he entered the Dixon college and became a member of the law class. In 1903 after his graduation and admission to practice law in Illinois, he was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Hake of Platteville, Wis. The young couple made their home in Dixon where the ambitious young attorney began his practice, being affiliated with the law firm of Trusdell, Smith & Leech. When the firm established an office in Amboy, Judge Leech went to that city where he resided for a number of years and became a most successful attorney. When the firm dissolved after the death of Mr. Trusdell, Judge Leech engaged in individual practice of law in Amboy, and in this venture became highly successful. His fine personality, his jovial disposition and keen intellect in matters of law, won for him a host of warm friends.

Elected City Attorney. He was elected city attorney of Amboy in which capacity he served for several terms. He was secretary of the Lee County Fair Association for a period of 16 years, was president of the Amboy township high school board of education and a director of the Amboy Public hospital. Fraternally, he held membership in Amboy lodges of Masons, Dixon Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar; Freeport Consistory; Springfield Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.; the Eastern Star of Amboy; the Order of the Sword of Bunker Hill of Amboy and the Dixon lodge of Elks.

Illinois Court of Claims where he served for eight consecutive years. When State's Attorney Harry Edwards was elected to the circuit bench, Judge Leech was named to fill his unexpired term as prosecutor of Lee county. Upon the death of the late County Judge John B. Crabtree, Judge Leech was elected at a special election held in April, 1925 to fill the unexpired term, in which office he has subsequently made a fine reputation as a jurist since.

Fearless and Firm
In his decisions, he was fearless and firm, yet always thoughtful of the unfortunate. The duties of this important office had more than tripled in recent years and became much more exacting upon the incumbent, but Judge Leech met this condition fearlessly and with extreme satisfaction to all who were interested. His ability on the bench was early recognized and repeatedly his counsel was sought in important cases in the courts of adjoining counties. He was admired not only by the members of the bar with whom he came in contact daily, but by all who enjoyed his acquaintance, and his death will be most distinctly felt in this community.

Surviving him is his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Ruth McEwen of Gleason of Moline and a brother, DeKalb, a half-sister, Mrs. Charles Charles of Kewanee.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30 from the Brinon Memorial Masonic Temple. Officers and members of Friendship Lodge, No. 7, A. F. & A. Roosevelt backers continued to predict victory. Opponents were not talking filibuster, they were after enough votes to beat a court reorganization and declared they had almost enough.

Privately, however, foes of the president's program said they would talk long and hard to "educate" the nation on the issue. They were ready to combat any move to curb debate by cloture, that infrequently used senate procedure for enforcing a vote.

Despite administration unwillingness to face the possibility of filibuster, it was this possibility which has given rise this week to talk of compromise.

Roosevelt, according to those who have talked with him, is in no mood to compromise. His spokesmen have said nothing yet proposed would meet the problem.

LOW WAGES AND LONG HOURS TO BE PROHIBITED

Roosevelt Considers New Legislation on the Subject

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Unimpeachable authorities disclosed today President Roosevelt is considering a flexible program to outlaw excessively low wages and long hours through revision of the fair trade practice and anti-trust laws.

Besides fixing mandatory wage and hour standards, the projected legislation would provide for a broad system of voluntary agreements under which business men could ban unfair and wasteful trade practices.

Roosevelt, it was emphasized, has not had time for a detailed study, but was reported to regard it favorably.

Officials said administration legal experts believe the program could be fitted into the present framework of the constitution and past Supreme Court rulings. If the president finally approves they said, the court reorganization is therefore need not delay its presentation.

Under the proposal, Congress would make it a violation of fair practice laws for industries engaging in interstate commerce to pay employees unduly low wages or work excessively long hours.

Means Another Board

A new board would be created to formulate wage and hour standards for each industry. This board probably would be attached to the present Federal Trade Commission.

It would fix the standards after industry-wide hearings, much as the old NRA codes were drafted. Its regulations, however, would be limited to wages and hours.

The labor standards, officials said, would be aimed entirely at elimination of sweatshop conditions. Among minimum standards would be abolition of child labor.

Collective bargaining would be relied on to provide for wage and hour standards above those prescribed by the board.

Penalties Proposed

On a complaint that the wage and hour regulations had been violated, either the board or the trade commission could issue a "cease and desist" order. After a hearing, fines or other penalties might be imposed.

The question of penalties has not been definitely settled, but White House advisers were said to oppose jailing of violators.

The government would take an active part in defending the agreements against court or other attacks. This, officials said, probably would help to promote a co-operative working arrangement between business and government.

The agreements would be voluntary, and it was said, would not strike directly at the "chiselers." Authoritative persons said, however, those refusing to sign might benefit in the exchange of information among participating industries.

Old Adage

Proverb Concerning Women's Place Is Given Beating

Chicago, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The old adage "woman's place is in the home" took a beating from statistics on the "usual occupation" of Illinois women on WPA work relief.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, said today a work inventory disclosed that many women certified as heads of families in need of work relief were formerly employed on jobs usually reserved for men.

Four were "newsboys" and six were paper hangers. Two were cobblers, one worked in a rolling mill and another drove a taxicab. Two listed "farm foremen" as their former occupations while three said they used to be boot-blacks.

HEART TROUBLE - BY "HELENE"

She Will Solve Your Love Once Each Week In This Column Appearing Saturdays

Dear Helene: I am a boy 23 years old and I'm in love with a girl 19. I am required to work several nights during the week and I doubt that she is true to me please help to relieve my anxiety.

Hopefully yours,
L. K.

Dear L. K.: It hardly seems possible that you love the girl you write of in your letter. If you did you would trust her without reservation. Loving her and trusting her, you could not find it in your heart to begrudge her any harmless pleasure. The young woman will do nothing to cause you jealousy, worry or alarm if she cares for you as much as you want her to care for you.

You had better worry toward that end instead of eating your heart out with jealousy and worry over what she is doing on the nights you are unable to see her.

The best of luck,
Helene

Dear Helene: Reading your column I assume you can be of assistance to me. Not over eight months ago I met a young man who appealed to me very much, but he seemed a bit flighty and made his calls very limited. Suddenly he left and I never heard from him but have seen some of his companions from whom I received information of his whereabouts. I always told them to remind him of me. I learn that he will be back in the near future a much changed person and more free.

Now Helene, should I wait for this person? I feel I should, but your advice would make me feel more confident. By profession I am a telephone operator and one's mind must be on one's work. Waiting for your answer I remain,
"Margo"

Dear Margo: You characterize the young man as "flighty." Unless he has changed considerably during his absence, it would seem as though he is hardly the type of man who should be taken too seriously or waited on very long. Maybe you have failed to convey the impression you wanted to in your letter to me, or I have failed to understand.

My suggestion is that you cultivate other male acquaintances and relegate this man to the past. If I don't seem to you to have an understanding of your problem, please write me again.

Helene

Dear Helene: Being a young man who never did a great deal of courting I would like to get acquainted with some refined young lady through your advice. I have traveled quite frequently but never seemed to meet one who appealed to me.

Whenever I go out I usually travel with a crowd of young fellows all who like to go places. I also enjoy a good time. Now could you please inform me how I could mingle with the other sex? I have a car and am not the conceited type, sort of quiet but will converse with most anyone when approached.

N. "Sleepy" D.

Dear N. "Sleepy" D.: Let me offer this suggestion—first change the habits and manners that helped you acquire that nickname. If it really is your nickname, I am not offering this in a flippant spirit—I write it as a bona fide criticism in an effort to help you. It may prove a major component in this equation.

You say you will converse with most anyone when approached. That is a negative attribute in the acquisition of feminine companionship. You must be less shy and more aggressive, from the tone of your letter.

I'm sure you are a very pleasant person. Cultivate self-confidence and some degree of conversational ability. You will also find that traveling with a large crowd of young fellows will not prove conducive to the attainment of your desire.

I sincerely hope these few suggestions will be of help to you.
Helene

DAILY HEALTH

By Dr. Iago Galdston

BALDNESS

Among the minor plagues to which human beings, notably the males, are subject, baldness is outstanding. In most instances nothing can be done to prevent its ultimate development. However, the loss of hair may be retarded to a degree by general attention to one's health and by proper care of the scalp.

There are different kinds of baldness, distinguished by cause and type. Children may be born without any hair at all, and fail to grow any during life. Individuals may develop large or small patches of baldness in the midst of a luxuriant head of hair. This condition is of unknown origin, and is termed alopecia areata.

Certain disease of the body, such as typhoid fever, pneumonia, influenza and other febrile diseases, may be followed by a marked loss of hair, sometimes amounting to total baldness. Oddly, such hair loss is usually noticed 90 days or so after the disease. Fortunately in most such cases the hair grows back again.

The most common type of baldness is that termed premature and idiopathic. Its onset is early in adult life. Its cause remains a mystery. Heredity evidently plays some part in its development. Bald fathers are likely to have bald sons, "unless they take after the mother."

The thinning out of hair usually begins at the temple regions and on the crown. The process proceeds with varying degrees of rapidity until the entire top of the head becomes denuded. The surrounding fringe of hair is seldom lost. On the contrary the growth of the hair in this part of the scalp seems to become accelerated with age, so that the individual, as he grows older, "goes to the barber more and more often to have less and less hair cut."

The treatment of baldness depends upon its specific cause, when that can be determined. Attention to one's personal hygiene, the elimination of disease processes, and of foci of infection may contribute to the retardation of the development of premature baldness.

Scalp hygiene, to be discussed in this column tomorrow, is of importance. But beyond these, it seems the best safeguard is to choose the right sort of forefathers.

SCALP HYGIENE

Good scalp hygiene is indicated for cosmetic reasons and because it may help retard the development of baldness. The principal elements of good scalp hygiene are washing, combing and brushing.

In addition, however, some attention must be paid to the fitting of head gear, for it is believed, though not proved, that a tight-fitting hat may contribute to the loss of hair, presumably by constriction of the superficial blood vessels.

No specific rule can be offered on how often the hair should be washed. Those with an oily skin should wash the scalp more frequently. Those living or working in a dusty atmosphere will need to wash their scalp more frequently than persons otherwise situated.

Neutral soap, one free of excess alkalies, should be used. Whether it is liquid, flaky or in cake form is of little significance. A good hair shampoo may be made of tincture of green soap, to which is added 2 per cent of resorcin. After producing a good lather, it is most desirable that all of the soap should be washed from the hair. Hence one should use plenty of warm water. A warm towel should be employed to dry the hair and it is preferable to "pat the moisture out of the hair rather than to rub it out."

Brushing is generally advised as a desirable measure to keep the hair in good shape and to stimulate the scalp. Combs and brushes should be kept clean and should be considered as strictly personal articles, not to be used by anyone else. It is desirable to pay attention to the brushes and combs used in barber shops. These should be washed and cleaned after each use and before they are employed again.

Massage of the scalp is believed to be beneficial to hair growth in that it stimulates blood circulation in the scalp. Massaging may be part of the hair brushing exercise or may be more deliberately applied to the scalp through the finger tips, palm of the hand or mechanical vibrators. Sometimes it may be noticed that during massaging a large number of hairs come away from the scalp. This loss, however, is usually temporary.

Hair tonics, or more correctly scalp lotions, should not be used indiscriminately. Certain of these contain irritating ingredients that may do more harm than good. It is well to have one's scalp lotion or ointment prescribed by a dermatologist.

Cardinal Bosses Slightly Cautious

St. Louis, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Of Diz isn't driving the Cardinal management dizzy—yet—but he does have President Sam Breadon and Vice President Business Manager Branch Rickey somewhat curious. The Red Bird bosses are certain Jerome Herman Dean has his contract. They have received a receipt card for the registered packet, mailed over a week ago, showing Diz personally signed for his 1937 offer.

To date there hasn't been a single howl, or squawk or even a whisper that isn't a bit like Diz's. The usually irrepresible one wants $50,000 to do his work this year. Breadon and Rickey have made it clear he won't get it.

PIECES OF EIGHT

On May 7, 22nd anniversary of the sinking of the Lusitania, a diver will stand on the sunken deck of that ship and tell his impressions by radio to the world. Salvagers have found what they believe to be the wreck of the Lusitania and positive identification is expected soon.

Not the least of the reasons for wishing to salvage the torpedoed liner is the huge cache of jewelry believed to have been abandoned by passengers in the ship's safe and elsewhere aboard. Divers may ascertain whether the ship carried contraband. The vessel will be pulled apart, floated and sold for munitions in the British rearmament program.

The attempt to salvage the ship and recover gold and jewelry reminds those of a romantic turn of mind about the constant efforts of treasure seekers and salvagers to uncover vast hoards of treasure known to be sunk in the ocean or buried on islands throughout the world. One estimate, probably highly conservative, is that at least 154 millions dollars worth of bullion and gems, once in the hands of men, remain to be uncovered.
Beginning at home, there are 4 1/2 millions in gold at the foot of Pot rock in the Hudson river off the Jersey shore.
The British frigate Hussar struck the rock and sank with all hands in 1780 at that point and none of the treasure has been recovered. The Caribbean Sea is almost paved with gold from sunken galleons.

In that connection mention should be made of fourteen Spanish ships sunk by British war vessels in Vigo bay off Spain. This convoy carried the loot of two years of robbery and murder indulged in by Spanish who were uplifting the heathen Mexicans in the sixteenth century.
In Tobemary bay north of Scotland is a sunken Spanish vessel known to have carried 10 millions in gold, the fruit of Christianizing Mexicans and murdering them, Spanish style, about the same period.

On Oak island, off Nova Scotia, is buried a treasure of 50 millions in gold and gems. Treasure seekers obtained a map and had unearthed a marker in a hole at the foot of a large tree when sea water poured into the excavation. To date no one has been able to pump the Atlantic ocean out of that hole.

During the war between Peru and Chile four adventurers, hidden in a church, found seven chests of precious stones, gold and silver. They buried six of the chests on Panaki island a few hundred miles from Tahiti and took the seventh with them to Australia. They set about having a good time and it is believed they succeeded. Finally they awakened one morning after a hilarious night and discovered they had not even the money needed to return to Panaki. They found work in some mines and eventually got into a quarrel which ended when two were dead. The other two were sentenced to prison, where one died. The remaining adventurer never was able to get back to the treasure.

All these known undersea treasures await development of methods to get at them. Sea worms riddle the wooden vessels, avoiding only those buried in silt. The finding of a wreck buried under silt is a difficult task.
Even after one is found there are enormous difficulties
if the water is deep.

There is an ironical aspect to the attempt to recover the Lusitania. The ship was sunk by a German submarine during the World War. The nations are now arming for a new war and metal from the Lusitania might play a part in that conflict.

MORE KEEPING US OUT OF WAR

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada has proposed amendments to the present neutrality law and is prepared to press for their adoption. The original neutrality law was aimed particularly at the munitions makers. It will be remembered that the munitions kings are charged largely with getting us into the World War.
Having got us in, they couldn't supply us with munitions.

The law with the Pittman amendments, if put into operation, would protect us not only from the munitions kings, but also from the international bankers, bankers, stockmen, insurance agents, radio salesmen automobile manufacturers, tourists, book agents, white collar workers and everybody else who might conceivably have a hand in getting us into a military campaign.
The law does not mention each class of trade, business, profession and avocation by name, but by direction and indirection it sews us up so we could sell only in little dribbles, if at all, to belligerents.

That is to say, the bill would protect us from everybody except ourselves. There is no statute that would keep us out of war if we wanted to go to war.

The only difference between a munitions manufacturer and a cotton grower is one of occupation. Both are human and one of the unfortunate characteristics of humankind is the desire to obtain money. Admitting, for the sake of making an illustration, that the munitions makers and international bankers got us into the World War: In the next war they will have the same desire to amass money and will apply pressure; in addition to the pressure these gentlemen will exert the president and the congress will have to resist the pressure of the cotton growers, stockmen, grain growers and all those other classifications that profited in the World War and would be hit suddenly by a slackening of foreign trade which experts say would be certain to come if we attain "trade neutrality" in a future conflict. If we admit that a handful of bankers and munitions manufacturers got us into the World War, then we are inconsistent if we believe the government can resist a whole nation.

HYBRID CORN GOOD BUT MUST BE REAL THING

Lee County Farmers Warned To Beware False Products

"Fancy prices and magic names will not make hybrid seed corn," is the theme of a warning issued to Illinois farmers by L. A. Moore, Superintendent of the State Division of Plant Industry.

According to recent investigation by department inspectors, a large amount of corn offered for sale as hybrid seed has proven to be second and third generations of hybrid and no better than good open pollinated corn which farmers have been growing for years.

The results of tests carefully conducted by the University of Illinois show excellent results in Illinois for good hybrid seed corn which is adapted to the locality in which it is grown, but satisfactory results cannot be expected unless the hybrid is genuine.

Regulations of the State Department of Agriculture require that all corn labeled "hybrid" shall be the first cross fertilization or first generation and not advanced generations.

One lot of approximately 35000 worth of corn advertised as hybrid was withdrawn from the market recently when state inspection proved that it did not have the qualities of hybrid seed and was not developed as such. This corn, worth probably $3.50 per bushel, was offered for sale at $12.00 per bushel because of the magic word "hybrid."

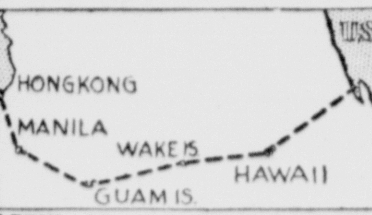

The law is being strictly enforced in the interest of the Illinois farmer, but purchasers are warned not to pay a premium for hybrid seed unless a careful examination has been made. If the purchaser is in doubt he should consult the State Department of Agriculture or the Department of Agronomy at the University of Illinois.

Encouraged by reports that 22.7 per cent of all livestock marketed in Illinois last year traveled through co-operative channels, more than 300 livestock feeders and breeders will meet in the Pere Marquette hotel, Peoria, Fri., Feb. 19, for the annual meeting of Illinois Livestock Marketing Association, according to the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Plans for the 1937 Illinois Farm Sports Festival will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Illinois Farm Bureau baseball league in Peoria, March 19, says the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

NEW 20 and 50-cent stamps, similar to the 25-cent trans-Pacific airmail type, have been placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C. These are designed for use in connection with new airmail rates across the Pacific, beginning with the first flight beyond Manila to Macao and Hong Kong. This flight is scheduled for March 24, weather permitting.

New rates also have been established. These are:

U. S. to Hawaii, 20 cents; to Guam, 40 cents; to Manila, 50 cents; to Hong Kong-Macao, 70 cents.

Hawaii to U. S., 20 cents; to Guam, 20 cents; to Manila, 30 cents; to Hong Kong-Macao, 50 cents.

Guam to U. S., 40 cents; to Hawaii, 20 cents; to Manila, 10 cents; to Hong Kong-Macao, 30 cents.

Rates from Manila and the Chinese ports depend on the decisions of the Philippine and British postal authorities. These will be announced later. Meantime, prepare your U. S. covers for the various tops both ways, get the stamps from Washington and hold them ready for further details on handling these covers. The Post Office Department will announce these later.

Since there may be some difficulty in handling covers at Manila and in China, it is believed that the Pan-American Airlines may serve cover collectors at these points, but an additional charge may be made.

The new stamps are exactly like the present 25-cent trans-Pacific, except that the date, "November, 1935," is lacking.

FEW DULL DAYS FOR YOUTHS OF FARM THIS YEAR

"Know Illinois" Project is Arousing Much Interest

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 20—There will be no dull days on the farm and in rural communities of Illinois during the coming year, if plans of 5,177 rural youths in 66 counties who are enrolled in programs sponsored by the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois materialize. In charge of the programs are Miss Cleo Fitzsimmons and G. S. Randall, 4-H club specialists of the college. One thing on the schedule is more educational tours and picnics.

The young people are finding they can satisfactorily combine educational and recreational programs. Hence, they are correlating the "Know Illinois" project, which is a study of historical and other interesting places in the state, with actual tours. More than 20 counties had young people's groups carrying this project last year and plans are that many groups will begin historical studies in March in order to be prepared to take tours when weather permits distance driving.

Proof that the educational-recreational type of program is appealing to the young man or young woman living on the farm, is found in the fact that twenty-one additional counties took up the work in 1936. Membership rose from 1,786 young women in 1935 to 2,380 in 1936. Whereas 2,184 young men took a part in 1935 programs, 2,797 were rural youth members in 1936. Most of the young people who take part in these programs are out of school, above 4-H club interest, and not engaged in business or home-making for themselves.

Opening of the new year finds five counties either in the process of organization or planning to enlarge programs already under way. They are Hancock, which is considering the work; Vermilion, which has a committee working on organization; Henry, which has a skilled drivers' club for its young people and is considering including more varied interests in its program; and Coles and Brown counties.

Counties which took up the work during 1936 are Calhoun, Cass, Christian, Clay, Clinton, DeKalb, Douglas, Fayette, Ford, Franklin, Greene, Grundy, Jackson, Jasper, Johnson, Kanakee, LaSalle, Morgan, Pope-Hardin, Wabash and Whiteside.

Counties carrying the work for more than a year are Williamson, White, Randolph, Massac, Monroe, Washington, Edwards, Richland, Lawrence, Marion, Bond, Madison, Effingham, Shelby, Montgomery, Macoupin, Pike, Scott, Macon, Piatt, Tazewell, Champaign, DeWitt, Adams, Schuyler, Mason, Tazewell, McLean, McDonough, Woodford, Livingston, Iroquois, Warren, Knox, Mercer, Marshall, Putnam, Bureau, Henry, Kendall, DuPage, Kane, Ogle, Jo Daviess, McHenry and Lake.

Since the young people plan and direct their own programs, they are able to choose projects and problems in which they are most interested, says Miss Fitzsimmons. Among the popular activities have been recreation, drama production, making the most of social events, "know your farm," a personality study entitled "You at Your Best," a study of farm plans and discussion on how to get started farming.

DeWitt and Shelby counties each with around 240 members, Effingham with 190, and Iroquois with 192 members have the largest enrollments of the counties that in cooperation with farm and home bureaus and the extension service of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, are carrying programs for young people.

Of the 5,177 young persons enrolled, more than 1,147 have actively participated in the work by helping on committees or holding office, reports Miss Fitzsimmons. Among counties which have a large percentage of members taking active part in programs, Grundy, Livingston, Madison, Ford and Tazewell rank high.

"While flood news is out of the headlines, the need for aid in flooded farm families continues. We shall work in close co-operation with the Red Cross and other relief agencies which, reports show, have largely provided for the emergency needs of refugees for food and shelter." Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, said at the annual meeting of Illinois Grain Corporation in Peoria, Feb. 12.

A. R. Wright, assistant treasurer of the IAA, and George Thiem, editor of the Illinois Agricultural Association Record, were in the flooded area of southeastern Illinois last week to investigate the needs of stricken farmers.

Nearly 4,000 farm families in Gallatin, Saline, White, Pulaski, Alexander, Pope-Hardin Hamilton and Massac counties have been seriously affected by flood waters, says the IAA.

WIND EROSION IN LEE COUNTY IS WORST EVER

Tons of Soil Being Swept Away in Dust Clouds

The past winter we have experienced one of the worst winters for wind erosion of our good soils in the history of this county. In the past we have thought of erosion as water erosion, but this year has brought to the attention of all farmers the extreme danger of wind erosion. Thousands of tons of Lee county soil are being swept away by the heavy winds this year. The soil which is lifted from the farms is generally the silt or the organic matter in the soil. Means should be taken to protect various plowed fields from this erosion in the future. By planting a small quantity of oats, perhaps a bushel an acre at plowing time, clumps of oats will grow up and stop this extreme soil erosion. Oats killed during the winter can be very easily disced up for corn in the spring. Many farmers are talking of not plowing at all in the fall, but will plow only in the spring. This can be made possible by efficient tractor outfits which are now on the market. Farmers in Lee county should take precaution against this wind erosion. The amount of fertility taken from the soil during the winter time is more than can be possibly put back in that field with all the manure that is in the farm yard during that same season.

SEES PROSPECT OF INCREASED OAT ACREAGE

Oats In Demand As Drouth Killed Legume Hays

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 20—Prospects for an oat acreage this spring in excess of the 3,495,000 acres seeded last year in Illinois make it essential that farmers in need of seed locate as early as possible a supply of an improved variety adapted to the locality, according to George H. Dungan, associate chief in crop production, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Shortage of old legume hay crops killed out by the drouth, shortage of adapted domestic legume seed and shortage of seed in flood areas are factors affecting the expected heavy demand for seed oats. Furthermore, oats provide one of the first hay crops in the spring. With a production of 99,608,000 bushels last year in Illinois, seed is expected to be relatively cheap, it is pointed out.

Best oat varieties for different sections of the state are being singled out in annual tests which the agricultural college is conducting at DeKalb in northern Illinois, at Urbana in central Illinois and at Alhambra in southwestern Illinois.

In northern Illinois, Iowa, Albion and Richland are leading varieties, all of which are varieties that have been developed as selections from Kherson. They are white oats suitable for feed or market.

Leading varieties in central Illinois, grown for a minimum of six years, include Columbia, Burt (Nebraska 293) and Kanota. Columbia is an early, stiff-strawed oat suitable for growing as a feed crop. Burt (Nebraska 293) is an early high yielding oat, not as stiff-strawed as Columbia.

Oat yields were a failure on the Alhambra field last year because of heavy rains. However, in other years oats raising at the top on the Alhambra field are Bruner, Columbia and Burt (Nebraska 293). Bruner is a red oat which was developed for dry-land conditions in Colorado. While it is a good yielding variety, it has a weak straw and for that reason may not be a better choice than the Columbia.

Information on sources of seed may be obtained from the agronomy department of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Distribution of feed and seed to farmers in the flooded area of southeastern Illinois will be handled by county Farm Bureaus working in conjunction with the Red Cross organization, reports the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Accurate records will be kept and information exchanged so as to result in equitable distribution.

More accidents occur on the highways on Saturdays than on any other day in the week but more persons are killed on Sunday than on any other day.

HOMEMAKERS GET HINTS ON BREADMAKING

Miss Grace Armstrong Spoke To Women At Amboy Meeting

Because bread making is enough of an industry in Lee county 78 Home Bureau members and friends are out to learn what makes bread heavy or too sour or otherwise unappealing at family meals, says Miss Elizabeth Colean, home adviser.

Meeting with the women at Amboy, Friday, February 12 in order to give them the latest information on methods to use in making bread, was Miss Grace Armstrong, home economics extension specialist in foods, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Most common mistake which homemakers make is allowing the dough to become too hot, said Miss Armstrong. This results in killing of the yeast plant and bread will not be leavened as well.

Prior to that, however, is the influence of ingredients, of method of kneading the dough, and the utensils used.

Considering the fact that homemakers making bread bake from two to four loaves at least once a week, the expense can become quite an item if the bread does not turn out tasty, well proportioned and palatable, Miss Armstrong pointed out.

Achieving the golden colored, well-formed, mellow-tasting type of bread is not a difficult task but requires constant use of the same ingredients from time to time, according to Miss Armstrong. The homemaker who has tried an oven a type of flour, or shortening, and yeast, either liquid or dry; must not expect to substitute and receive the same results, she said. However, if the homemaker knows the reaction of various shortenings, or various flours which might be used in the recipe, it is possible to substitute when necessary.

Equally important as the temperature at which the dough was raised, is the temperature at which the bread is baked, in Miss Armstrong's opinion. Too low temperatures may give a light, porous product which tends to run over the side of the pan. Too high a temperature may result in burning of the loaf. However, an oven of 400 degrees is not too hot if the bread is removed immediately upon becoming done. An oven thermometer is recommended.

Following a method demonstration on making white bread, homemakers were permitted to sample the product.

The women were interested in an impromptu judging of their own products later when Miss Armstrong told them what they might do to correct their mistakes.

Hog Population Is Increasing

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20—A. J. Surratt, statistician for the Illinois and federal departments of agriculture, announced today the number of hogs in Illinois on January 1 was 4,053,000, an increase of 5 per cent over a year ago. All other types of livestock showed decreases.

The number of other types of livestock in Illinois on January 1, and their percentage decrease from the previous year:

Horses, 732,000, 2 per cent; mules, 108,000, 2 per cent; cattle, 2,732,000, 2 per cent, and sheep and lambs, 887,000, 2 per cent.

Plans for a state-wide organized campaign by the Illinois Agricultural Association and affiliated county Farm Bureaus in the unbranded area to secure donations of corn, seed grains, hay and cash to aid flood-stricken Illinois farmers in the Ohio and Wabash valleys have been announced by Earl C. Smith, president of this association. Each county is asked to report donations immediately to the flood relief committee at IAA headquarters in Chicago from which shipping directions will go out.

George L. Potter of Graymont, Livingston county, was elected president of the Illinois Grain Corporation at the annual meeting in Peoria, Feb. 12. He succeeds G. C. Johnstone of Bloomington.

New directors are George Thier, West Brooklyn, Lee county; Charles Haller, Edwards, Peoria county; O. G. Anderson, Gibson City, Ford county; E. D. Lawrence, Bloomington, McLean county; A. O. Eckert, Belleville, St. Clair county; Re-elected were J. Fred Romine, Tuscola; Fred Zimmerman, San Jose; Eugene Curtis, Champaign; A. R. Wright, Varna.

A state committee, set up by the Illinois Agricultural Association was in the flood area last week making a survey of the needs of stricken farmers. It reported to Earl C. Smith, that thousands of horses, mules, cattle and hogs are marooned on ridges and high points in the flooded area.

KIMMELSHUE JOINS STAFF; JUNIOR CLUB

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 20—New 4-H club assistant in the extension service of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois is Miss Florence Kimmelshue, formerly Lake county home adviser.

Miss Kimmelshue, who has just started her new work was appointed to fill the vacancy left by Miss Mary Vanneman, who resigned to be married. As a supervisor of girls' 4-H club work she will work with Miss Mary McKee, Miss Mildred Read and Miss Erna Cottinham, in directing more than 12,000 girls in the state in 4-H projects.

During the past five years Miss Kimmelshue has been home adviser in Lake county, working with the women of the county as well as 4-H club girls. Following her training at Monmouth college, Monmouth, and the University of Illinois from which she graduated in 1922, Miss Kimmelshue took post graduate dietetics training at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago.

She has taught in Mazon, Morris and Manteno high schools; at Hammond, Ind.; and in the public schools of Chicago.

Other experience which will aid Miss Kimmelshue in her work is her service as dietitian at the Illinois Soldiers' Orphans Home, at Normal, and her employment as a sales person in a large department store in Chicago.

28,025 GIRLS AND BOYS JOIN 4-H CLUB WORK

Over 1000 New Members Enrolled During 1936

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 20—Not content with hanging up new records at fairs and expositions, Illinois' 28,025 4-H club members established new state highs in enrollment and achievement last year, according to E. I. Pichard and Miss Mary A. McKee, extension specialists in junior club work, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Farm boys and girls of the state who are carrying on projects in better farming and homemaking practices under the supervision of local farm and home advisers and the extension service of the agricultural college entered 1937 with 1,655 more members than at this time last year. Work of 4-H clubs is designed for farm youngsters between the ages of 10 and 20 years and is carried on in each of the 102 counties of the state.

In 1936 15,337 farm youths are enrolled. Of this number 12,149 completed projects in 1936 for a completion percentage of 79.2 as compared with a percentage of 77.5 the previous year, Pichard explained.

A total of 892 clubs carried on agricultural projects last year, an increase of 56. However, the number of standard clubs, clubs having five or more members enrolled in the same project, increased from 698 to 815. Of this number 363 were achievement clubs as compared with 226 the previous year. Achievement clubs must meet definite requirements as to meetings, demonstration or judging teams, completed projects and achievement days.

Madison county was the only county in the state to end the year with each agricultural club member completing his project, and Livingston county established what is thought to be a new record with more than 501 members completing projects.

In the strictly home economics projects the 1936 enrollment totaled 12,628 of which 11,946 completed projects for a percentage of 86.4. Miss McKee pointed out. This is a substantial increase over the previous year when the enrollment was 12,149 with 10,347 completions for a percentage of 85.1.

Home economics projects are carried on through 1,863 clubs of which 1,155 are standard clubs and 982 are listed as achievement clubs.

COLD STORAGE TOOK IN 14,716 POUNDS OF MEAT

All Lockers Rented For $10.00 Cash In Advance

The reports during the month of January show that Lee County Cold Storage took in 19,680 pounds of beef, 186 pounds of lamb, 3334 pounds of pork, 337 pounds of chicken, 190 pounds of turkeys and 87 pounds of miscellaneous poultry, or a total of 14,716 pounds. This is the report presented to the Board of Directors by the plant manager, Clayton Elliott.

Lockers Well Filled
The original 210 lockers are now filled up with the exception of one locker. All lockers have been rented for $10.00 cash in advance. Approximately 35 lockers were re-rented that had been spoken for by men but did not take them for one reason or another. 120 more lockers will be ordered by the board in the very near future. When this number of lockers is all rented there will be no more lockers for rent, out of the Amboy plant. Stock is still being taken in on subscription. If you are looking for a good safe place to invest money we feel that the Cold Storage Plant is a safe place, paying 6% interest.

Attracts Other Groups
During last week six county groups and community groups visited the plant. This week four groups have already been at the plant. On Monday Livingston, Fulton and Winnebago counties visited the plant and Thursday DeKalb county made a visit to the plant. Groups from Mendota, Earlville, Leland, Henry county, Champaign, McLean, McHenry and many other counties have taken advantage of our plant and have given it thorough inspection.

New Regulations
The Board of Directors, at the January meeting, adopted a very important regulation for the plant. All products which are to be placed in the locker must first be submitted to the inspection and preparation for freezing to the plant manager. All such articles are wrapped with parchment paper that is used in wrapping meats. No home-wrapped packages will be placed in the lockers. This means that everybody who owns a locker must first submit anything he places in that locker for inspection by the plant manager. This regulation was put in to protect the rest of the patrons from contaminating food and possible disease.

A phone has been installed by the board of directors, Amboy 82. All patrons who have meat coming into the plant should first get in touch with the plant manager on the phone to see whether or not there is room for the meat. Because of extreme overcrowding some meat has had to hang outside the chill room for some time until meat can be cut up from the chill room. In order to avoid any meat hanging on the meat rail outside of the chill room you should call the plant first and find out when you can bring in the meat.

FORRESTON

Forreston — The Lend a Hand Circle met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ben Tampfers. Mrs. Bert Rager was assisting hostess. Mrs. Alice Garman had charge of the study hour.

The Men's Brotherhood of the First Evangelical church will act as host to an interchurch fellowship meeting Monday evening, Feb. 22 at 8 o'clock in the social rooms of the church. The guests will include churches from Chadwick, Polo, Brookville, Shannon and Florence Station.

The program: General theme—A Christian America. Patriotic setting "George Washington's Birthday." Working theme "Christ Wins Men Through Men."

Ten minute talks will be given by members of visiting groups. Musical numbers at the various meetings will be furnished by Polo, Chadwick, Florence Station and local high school orchestras.

Ogle county people already have given more than $8000 toward flood relief, and with contributions still coming in it is expected the $10,000 mark will be reached. Forreston township has given $800 and an effort is being made to bring the amount up to $1000. S. W. Mummer, secretary of the Ogle county Red Cross chapter said.

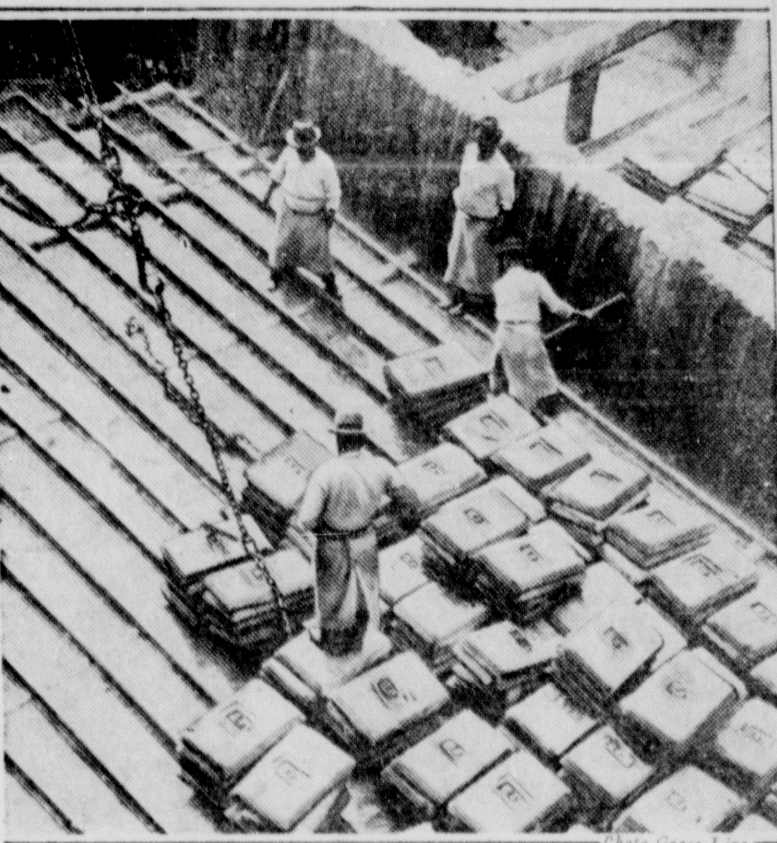

A proposal to create a community high school district of the area now served by the Forreston high school was carried by a narrow margin of 44 votes at a special election held Wednesday.

Out of 864 votes cast, 454 favored the plan while 410 were opposed.

Creation of the district will extend the taxing zone from which the school now draws its resources. For a number of years the high school has received its funds from grade district No. 40. An area about a mile wide and a mile and a half long, while serving a much larger territory.

The present school is large enough to serve the new district, and there will be no increase in school tax according to officials. A articles were made from copper, since it was not a difficult metal to work. Gold and silver, too, were used very commonly for they were not considered "precious" metals.

In addition to their skill in working metals, the Indians of the early days were able by some unknown process which has never been discovered to harden copper so that it could be used in pointed weapons and instruments much as steel is used today—in fact it was with implements of copper that the Indians cut the gigantic stones from which they built their imposing temples and palaces. Examples of these centuries-old, hard-as-steel instruments made from copper are to be seen in the museums of Lima—their presence a reminder to us that there are some things that the pre-historic races can teach us moderns.

DEKALB HANDS DIXON 32 TO 27 CAGE REVERSE

Locals' Chances For N. C. I. Title Now Mathematical

Chances of another N. C. I. conference basketball title all but flickered out Friday night for Dixon high school.

The Purple and White hoopers paying a return call on DeKalb were sent home laden with a 32 to 27 reverse in one of the hottest, wildest games played in the conference this winter. Coach Marvin Winger's lightweights had better luck and played their trumps for 20-14 victory over DeKalb's minors.

In the heavyweight game the Sharpshooters held the lead only three times. The first time was at the beginning of the game when the locals got away to a 4-0 start. DeKalb however on the sensational long shots of Seppela, and Jarvi held an 8 to 4 lead as the period ended.

Dixon started a furious rally in the second period but it fell short of the mark. After Irving had given DeKalb another bucket at the opening of the second, Coakley dropped in two in quick succession and Jarvi countered for DeKalb. Ankeny then swished a one-hander through the hoop from the foul line making the Barbs' lead to one point, 12-11. The hosts managed to pull away a few points however when Lindstrom and Jarvi scored making the score 16 to 12 at half time.

Locals Fight Uphill

The Purple and White team, fighting a strong uphill battle continued to press DeKalb hard in the third quarter and took the lead twice. Don Miller sent a spectacular arching long shot from midfloor through the net to send Dixon into a 20-19 lead until Seppela erased it with one of his equally brilliant goals. Coakley put Dixon again within striking distance of the lead by a free throw when fouled by Jarvi, and Callahan tied the score. Red Ellis sent Dixon ahead 25-23 for the last time as the third period closed.

The Barbs put on their greatest pressure in the fourth outscoring the Purple and White 3 to 2. Black led this offensive with six points. Dixon's only goal was dropped in by fighting Red Ellis who kept hustling the DeKalb guards as they worked the ball down the floor for quick passes. Frequently he broke up their dribbling.

In the lightweight game Dixon led 8 to 1 in the first quarter, and 10 to 5 at half time. It was 14 all in the third frame when DeKalb coming back strong, appeared headed for victory.

Friends of the Air Transport Association, which represents 99 per cent of the scheduled airlines in the United States, are urging Congress to appropriate $14,000,000 to help aviation. This money would go to build new radio stations, range signals and location markers to improve the transmission of weather reports.

Commercial airline operators carried 1,020,931 passengers in 1936, an increase of 37 per cent over 1935. The airlines flew 63,777,226 miles, and carried 6,938,777 pounds of express, which represents new records.

In lectures at Columbia University after he retired from his first service on the supreme bench, he emphasized the periods when the court had won popular disfavor.

There were three cases, he said, in which the Supreme Court had brought itself into disrepute. One was the Dred Scott decision before the Civil War, which Hughes described as a "public calamity" which "undermined confidence in the Court."

"It was many years," Hughes said, "before the court, even under new judges, was able to retrieve its reputation."

The second was the Legal Tender Case during Grant's administration, which Hughes said "shook popular respect for the court." The third was the income tax decision, which according to Hughes, again "gave occasion for a bitter assault."

Mr. Hughes discoursed at some length in his lectures on the place the Court might occupy in public esteem if it kept its decisions free from politics. And during the last three years of court decisions on the New Deal Mr. Hughes has made it evident to his colleagues that the prestige of the Supreme Court was very much at stake.

During the inner chamber argument which the justices held on the constitutionality of the AAA last year, newspapermen standing in the corridor could hear high-pitched voices. Suddenly above all the others came the strident voice of the chief justice:

"Gentlemen! You are not only ruining the country, you are ruining this court!"

So Mr. Hughes, a tragic, lonely figure watches the body in which he takes such pride become the most controversial issue in the United States.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Investigating the murder of BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, aboard CARLETON ROCK-SAVAGE's yacht, Detective Officer KETTERING runs into a maze of conflicting clues.

As the investigation progresses he charts the possible motives for each of the ship's passengers: MISS REGINALD JOCELYN, none so far as known; COUNT POSODINI, grudge motive against Blane; BISHOP OF RUDE, strong motive since Blane knew of his secret past. The lounge steward corroborated this theory.

LADY WELTER, strong motive of financial gain; MISS REGINALD JOCELYN, strong motive of financial gain; REGINALD JOCELYN, strong motive of financial gain.

NEW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

I THEN examined the contents of the wastepaper baskets, which had been removed from each of the parties' cabins on the morning following the crime, and three items of interest emerged from this examination.

In the refuse from Count Posodini's cabin I found 31 cigarette ends, 25 of these are Chesterfields, but the other 6 are an English brand called Players, and four out of these six have obvious traces of lipstick on them.

In the refuse from Miss Rock-savage's cabin I found a twist of hair which had obviously been removed from a comb. Most of this was golden hair, which undoubtedly comes from the head of Miss Ferri Rock-savage, but mingled with it there are a few short, black curly hairs, which definitely suggest that a man had used that comb after her.

Among the refuse from the Bishop of Rude's cabin I found one match torn out of a booklet of matches, upon which is printed in block letters the words "Adlon-Claridge."

I then re-examined various members of the party.

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAMES' SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S THIRD EXAMINATION OF THE HONORABLE MRS. JOCELYN.

K. Come in, Mrs. Jocelyn. Sit down, do.

P. J.: What, more questions, already?

K.: Yes. Sorry I've got to trouble you again, but let's make it as pleasant as we can. Have a cigarette?

P. J.: No thanks, I only smoke

my own.

K.: Right, then. May I have one of yours so we can be sociable?

P. J.: Certainly.

K.: I see you smoke Players. Very popular brand in England?

P. J.: Very.

K.: That's a charming shade of lipstick you use, Mrs. Jocelyn.

P. J.: Need we go into that?

K.: I'm afraid we've got to. I'm going to trouble you for the lipstick you have in your bag at the moment.

P. J.: But—I don't understand.

K.: Never mind. Just hand it over, will you. It'll save all sorts of trouble in the end if you'll oblige me now.

P. J.: All right. There's nothing very exciting about my lipstick, but I'm sure I don't want to be searched. Here it is.

K.: Thanks. You won't mind if I keep it will you? We shall need it later to prove that it matches the lipstick on these cigarette ends which I've got in this little tin box—see?

P. J.: Why—yes. But . . .

K.: Players, all of them, Mrs. Jocelyn, smoked by you and found the morning after Blane's death in Count Posodini's cabin. Now, don't get me all wrong. I'm not trying to fix you for murder, and I'm not trying to raise any nasty scandal about you. The point is that some time between the morning of the 7th and the morning of the 8th you smoked these cigarettes in Posodini's cabin.

IF it was, as I have reason to believe, between 7:45 and 8:10 p. m. that lets you out of any suggestion that you were doing anything with the Count that you shouldn't have.

On the other hand, if you didn't smoke them at that time, it might suggest that you were there for a very much longer period and then—no offense—but it might be suggested that you and the Count were up to the sort of thing your husband wouldn't care to hear about.

P. J.: I have nothing to add to my previous statement.

K.: All right, Mrs. Jocelyn. Then the presumption is that you were in the Count's cabin at some other, and probably a much longer, period during that 24 hours. If that comes out, as it may quite well have to in a case like this, what will your husband have to say?

P. J.: A lot I expect.

K.: That doesn't appear to worry you over much?

P. J.: As a matter of fact it's just the sort of little lesson I've been meaning to give him for some time.

K.: So he's been playing you up with Ferri, eh? I guessed as much.

P. J.: I did not say so.

Basket Ball Game
The high school basketball team drove through to a 45 to 31 victory over Leaf River Tuesday night in the Ashton Memorial gym before 175 of our own townspeople in a crowd of 275 basketball fans. Leaf River's lights won the preliminary tilt, 32 to 10, outlasting our team.

In the early minutes of the game our boys rolled up an 11 to 2 lead, sweeping the visitors before them in their power-house offense. Leaf River called time and then came back to set the score at 13 to 6 at the quarter.

Gaining a point in the second quarter to trail, 16 to 10 at the half, Leaf River lost their gain in the third quarter when the score stood at 25 to 18. Both teams were fighting hard. Leaf River valiantly hanging on.

The last quarter was played at top speed. Our boys scoring time and again on its fast break plays driving in under the basket. Leaf River was scoring, too, but the 20 points our boys piled up in that eight minutes overshadowed the 13 of Leaf River.

Dave Studebaker, Franklin center-captain, was the star of the evening, ringing up 22 points on eight baskets and six free throws. Also in the victory limelight were Snyder, Hatch and Patterson who scored nine, eight and six points respectively. That offense combination clicked effectively on dribble-in shots and under-the-basket plays. Wasson played a fine game at guard, combining with his teammates in holding off the Leaf River scorers who resorted to long shots.

Saturday night Franklin winds up its regular cage schedule in a return tussle with Lee Center on the Ashton floor. At the start of the season the Kinsleysmen invaded the Lee Center gym to nose out the Scarlet and Grey, 22 to 21. Franklin team and Lee Center will meet again in the first round of the state district tourney to be held at Walnut February 23.

Due to a shift in the state district basketball tourney the P. T. A. program will be Friday, February 26.

We hope this program will be a means of showing the patrons how classes are taught and how we endeavor to make our subjects practical and worthwhile for everyday living.

New Presbyterian Pastor
Rev. Louis Grafton, a senior in the McCormick Theological seminary in Chicago has been extended a call to become the pastor of the Presbyterian churches of Franklin Grove and Ashton, and the call has been accepted. Rev. Grafton has been supplying the local pulpit for the past several weeks.

Rev. Grafton is the son of a Presbyterian minister and after leaving high school took a four year course in electrical engineering. Upon the death of his father he decided to follow in his father's footsteps and entered the theological seminary from which he will graduate in April.

Rev. and Mrs. Grafton are very fine young folk and have been cordially received by the members of both congregations. Rev. Grafton will occupy the Presbyterian manse in Ashton.

Observe Golden Wedding
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coleman of Nachusa, observed their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at their home with a family dinner at noon, having as their guests Mrs. Emma Dysart of Nachusa; George Hain of this place and Charles Coleman and family of Dixon. Open house was held in the afternoon and about seventy-five people greeted this splendid aged couple. Mrs. Foster Mattern and Mrs. Ada Peterman of this place spent the afternoon. Mrs. Coleman being their aunt, and was a sister to the late Mrs. George Hain of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman are well known in this community and have many friends here who will wish them many more years of happy married life.

Happily Surprised
The Hausen Community club gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller, Monday night and surprised Miss Eunice Miller, who was celebrating her birthday anniversary. Miss Miller has taught the Hausen school for eleven years and the fact being there will not be enough pupils to continue another year, makes it necessary to discontinue school there. The guests brought with them lovely refreshments. Games were played and a happy evening enjoyed. The club presented Miss Miller with a lovely floor lamp. At a late hour all departed for their homes wishing her many more happy birthday anniversaries.

Lincoln's Birthday Program
A Lincoln's Birthday program was given Friday morning by the freshmen and sophomores in front of assembly. Bill McDivitt was the master of ceremonies, being our popular radio announcer at other times. June Hatch first led the assembly in singing "America" and "Yankee Doodle" with June Miller at the piano. Then Marvin Brown gave a short talk on the life of Lincoln. After this we enjoyed a recording of "Old Man River." Doris Howard read a poem "Lincoln, The Nation's Friend," written by Alice Jacobs.

June Hatch then again led us in group singing and we sang "Dixie-land." After this John Senger gave some interesting anecdotes about Lincoln and the program ended with the "U. S. Field Artillery March," by John Phillip Sousa.

A small program like this is a fitting reminder of the birthday of a most honored, humble man, who gave his all for his country when it most needed him, who clung to the Union when it was falling in pieces around him, and so preserved to us a United States of America, a precious birthright.

Throughout the land last Friday, schools and pupils commemorated the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, and we in Franklin Grove were a part of the great whole. Mr. G. W. Ling was invited but was unable to come.

Debate Club
Mr. Kinsley plans to organize a debate club in about two weeks. He has sent for material on the theory of debate and the technique of debating and plans to study with the club the art of debating for the first few weeks, that the club is organized. Membership will be open to anyone in the high school.

The first question to be taken up will be the state question of "Public Ownership of Public Utilities." Mr. Kinsley plans to engage in debates with other schools on this, the state question. He is not yet sure how many interschool debates there will be, but is sure that there will be some with neighboring schools.

Current topics and other debate subjects will be taken up as the semester advances. It is planned that there will be a debate before the assembly some time this year, during the first period in the morning. Debate work is excellent work in public speaking and about all the training offered in this line at this time. It is one of the most valuable of extra-curricular activities and we urge every student who is at all interested in public speaking or being a good talker, to enter the debate club.

The Fiftieth Boy
By Frank Crane
About one boy in fifty will remain after the feast and of his own accord, offer to help clear the things up or to wash the dishes.

Do you know the fiftieth boy? There are forty-nine boys who are seeking jobs; the job seeks the fiftieth boy.

The fiftieth boy smooths the wrinkles out of his teacher's forehead and takes the worry out of her mind.

All the grouches and sour faces brighten when they see the fiftieth boy coming, for he is brave and cheery.

He is not afraid to do right nor ashamed to be decent. He looks you straight in the eye.

He is not a prig nor a sissy, but he stands up straight and is honest.

Forty-seven out of forty-nine like him.

He is as pleasant toward his own sister as toward the sisters of other fellows.

He is not sorry for himself. He works as hard as he plays. Everyone is glad to see him.

Do you have that kind of a boy at your house? If not, don't complain, there are not enough of them to go around.

Sports
Do you realize that basketball season is going to be over this month? There are two games left yet to be played, one with Lee Center to be played at Ashton and the district tourney to be played at Walnut, the twenty-sixth of Feb. For four long months the basketball boys have been practicing very faithfully and kept strict basketball rules. Something happened though, last Thursday. You would think by this time that the basketball squad would know where to go for their regular practices. Evidently they didn't or else something must have been more important that occupied their minds, because one car load of fellows went to Ashton to practice, while the coach and his car load went to Lee Center. I don't know who was the absent minded professor, but don't you believe they had a good practice? I still don't know where they were supposed to practice and I don't believe the basketball fellows do either. Anyway, there were no hard feelings. It was all a joke, and it was really funny.

A game was played with Kings Friday night. The score was 36 to 31 in favor of Kings. It was a very poor game due to the fact that the score keepers and referees were very poor at keeping records.

Through the Keyhole
(Late one night.)
Johnny Hatch: I know a lot of new tricks. I can imitate any kind of bird you mention.
Doris Howard: Fine. Let's see you imitate the homing pigeon.
Judge: It seems that I have seen your face before.
Mr. Fox: You have, your honor, I gave your son saxophone lessons for two years.
Judge: Ninety-nine years.
When "Beans" Snyder goes to the barber shop, the barber usually asks if he wants a hair cut or just a change of oil.
It costs a lot of money to be a first rate sap.
"Who Was Shot and Who Was Not Shot?"
A duel was lately fought by Alexander Shott and John Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not. In this case it was better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, but avows that he was not, which proves that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot. Some folks think however, that the shot Shott shot, not Shott, but Nott. Can you tell who was shot?

"Lincoln, The Nation's Friend"
Across the nation there came the call.
For a leader brave and true;
One who would dare to stand for the right.
And fight for the Red, White and Blue.

The call was echoed across the land
By valley and hill and stream.
The call of a nation, great and strong,
To answer the Negro's dream.

Statesmen and leaders, all great men,
Were watching the nation's fall;
It took a man from a prairie state
To answer the Dark Slave's call.

O Lincoln! Leader, helper, friend,
We can never, no never repay—
Our debt to you, the nation's friend,
For what you did that day.

Alice Jacobs.

"Our Father"
There are no friends like our father,
And none so good and true,
We greet them when we meet them,
As roses greet the dew;
No other friends are dearer,
Though born of kindred gold,
And while we prize the new ones,
We treasure more the old.

There are no friends like our father,
Where'er we dwell or roam,
In lands beyond the ocean,
Or near the bounds of home;
And when they smile to gladden
Or sometimes frown to guide
We fondly wish our father
Would have been always by our side.

There are no friends like our father,
To help us with the load,
Which all must bear who journey
O'er life's uneven road;
And when unconquered sorrows
The weary hours invest,
The kindly words of our father
Was always the best.

There are no friends like our father,
To calm our frequent fears,

When shadows fall and deepen
Through life's declining years;
And when our faltering footsteps
Approach the great Divide,
We'll long to meet our father
Who waits on the other side.

The 1937 tire bill for the average American motorist will be about $15. It is estimated that, during 1937, the owner of the modern auto will need only 1.3 tires for his car.

More than 375,000 full meals will be served next year by the United Airlines during their flights.

Aeronautical engineers are constantly seeking for a windshield which will survive the shock of a collision with a bird while the plane is traveling at full speed. If the plane travels 270 miles an hour and the bird weighs four pounds, 10,000 foot-pounds of energy are involved in the pact.

Recently three stranded army flyers summoned rescuers by making a kite from the crashed plane fabric and flying it aloft. Searching planes noticed the kite and found the flyers.

REAL SATISFACTION
IN A NEAT APPEARANCE
The woman who pays great attention to the important details of her costume knows that neatness is far more important than just being "up-to-the-minute" in style fads. The expense of dry cleaning is small considering the satisfaction received.
